not want to be around him. [REDACTED] then stated she told Officer Ruel she was leaving, but asked how long until the glass and a half or two glasses of wine would be out of her system and when she could drive home sober, to which Officer Ruel responded she would be fine to drive around 10:30 pm. [REDACTED] also stated Officer Ruel told her he would sleep on the couch, and he left the bedroom and entered the living room. [REDACTED] then stated Officer Ruel came back into the bedroom to grab his phone, and left again to lay on the couch in the living room.

[REDACTED] stated she believed Officer Ruel was then deleting text messages from his phone. [REDACTED] stated that at this point, she confronted Officer Ruel about him deleting text messages from his phone, to which Officer Ruel responded that he was reading news on the Chicago Tribune application on his phone. [REDACTED] stated she told Officer Ruel she was not going to call the other woman she believed Officer Ruel was dating, but she was going to take record a video, send it to a friend who would then show the other woman. [REDACTED] then stated she grabbed her personal phone in her right hand and she grabbed her work phone in her left hand showing the time and date, and started recording a video of herself and Officer Ruel, and she stated, "Hi Nina, I think you know who I am, and I know you know who this is."<sup>3</sup> [REDACTED] stated that after panning the camera to Officer Ruel while she was filming, Officer Ruel got up off the couch and came at her, grabbed her arm, grabbed her phone, grabbed her hair, and threw her to the floor. [REDACTED] stated she had a twelve second video capturing Officer Ruel attacking her. [REDACTED] stated she was attacked at 9:23 pm. [REDACTED] stated Officer Ruel kept grabbing at her arms trying to grab the phone, and she was still holding her personal phone recording in her right hand and work phone in her left. [REDACTED] then stated Officer Ruel managed to take her phone she was recording on, but her phone was locked. [REDACTED] then stated Officer Ruel told her that she needed to delete the video, and she responded that she would. [REDACTED] stated Officer Ruel gave back her personal phone back that she recorded the video on after she promised to delete the video. [REDACTED] stated she felt her phones in Officer Ruel's pockets when he was on top of her, and she managed to grab one of the phones, but it was his phone she grabbed. [REDACTED] then stated she tried to open the phone and then discovered it was Officer Ruel's phone, and Officer Ruel laughed and told her she did not have the passcode to unlock the phone. [REDACTED] then stated she told Officer Ruel she did not need the passcode to his phone to call the police, to which Officer Ruel told her she would not call the police, and the police would not believe her as she works for the media and he is a police officer. [REDACTED] then stated Officer Ruel told her that an officer he knows may arrive and arrest her, and that she did not want to be arrested. [REDACTED] stated she then told Officer Ruel she would call "[REDACTED]"<sup>6</sup> and she also told Officer Ruel that if he left she would go to his neighbors and tell them to call the police on Officer Ruel. [REDACTED] stated she believed Officer Ruel was sleeping in his vehicle in his garage, but when she called him at 9:54pm she could hear him driving, and asked why he was driving as he was intoxicated. [REDACTED] stated she did not call anyone else for help as she did not want anyone to know about the incident. [REDACTED] further stated she asked Officer Ruel to get her superglue to stop her arm from bleeding. [REDACTED] stated she was getting lightheaded, possibly from seeing so much blood. [REDACTED] said that there was blood on Officer Ruel's walls, and she fell down for a little while and she did not know how long she was passed out. [REDACTED] stated she was worried she would bleed out at Officer Ruel's residence. [REDACTED] stated she did not leave Officer Ruel's residence earlier because she was drinking and she did not know where to walk to if she left Officer Ruel's residence. [REDACTED] stated she also did not want to leave her vehicle in Officer Ruel's garage and she did not want to leave her belongings at Officer Ruel's residence. [REDACTED] stated Officer Ruel did not come back to his residence that night. [REDACTED] stated that prior to leaving she wrote a letter and left it at Officer Ruel's residence.

[REDACTED] stated Officer Ruel called [REDACTED] at 5:33 am, and he told her that he would file a police report for her stealing his police star, to which [REDACTED] responded that she did not steal his police star. [REDACTED] also stated Officer Ruel stated he had his firearm on him and he wished he would have shot and killed [REDACTED]. [REDACTED] stated she packed her stuff and moved it from Officer Ruel's residence prior to Officer Ruel reentering his residence. [REDACTED] stated Officer Ruel grabbed her, scratched her chest, and put her in a chokehold which is captured by the video. [REDACTED] stated she also suffered scars on her arm and knee, and was "black and blue, like head to toe."<sup>7</sup> [REDACTED] stated she broke her toe as well from this incident. [REDACTED] further stated Officer Ruel's property damage claims were false, and that Officer Ruel damaged his property when he attacked her.<sup>8</sup> refused, to which Officer Ruel responded that he would leave. Officer Ruel stated that [REDACTED] then moved in his room and blocked the doorway from his bedroom with her body. Officer Ruel stated he then grabbed clothing items on the floor, climbed onto his dresser and tried to hop over his half wall to get around [REDACTED] and leave. Officer Ruel stated he has a "condo-style half wall"<sup>9</sup> in his bedroom that extends 10-15 feet high. Officer Ruel stated that when he was trying to hop over the wall, [REDACTED] grabbed the sweatshirt he was wearing, at about his middle back, and pulled him backwards, and he fell onto his back on his bed. Officer Ruel stated while running to the garage, he heard glass breaking, and he assumed it was his property being damaged by [REDACTED]. The report states that Carson stated he did not recall the exact date, but it was nighttime and he heard a man and a woman arguing in Ruel's unit. The report states Carson could not identify the voices. The report further states that Carson then heard a glass hit the ground and a door close, followed by 15 to 20 minute pause then what sounded like "mayhem." The report states that Carson said the noise was super loud and lasted for about 40 to 45 minutes. The case was changed to suspended until Officer Ruel contacted Detective Theis again.<sup>20</sup>

VI. ANALYSIS

In assessing this incident involving [REDACTED] and Officer Ruel, COPA had to examine the facts as presented through the investigation. COPA's findings are based heavily on the credibility of both Officer Ruel and [REDACTED]. Undoubtedly there was an incident that occurred between Officer Ruel and [REDACTED] on June 14, 2017, however COPA cannot say by a preponderance of the evidence that it occurred as alleged.

In evaluating the story as presented by [REDACTED], COPA cannot reconcile it with the evidence gained through this investigation. [REDACTED] alleges that she was injured so badly by Officer Ruel that she was bleeding profusely, passed out and had multiple injuries. However, COPA obtained video that shows [REDACTED] after she was allegedly badly injured by Officer Ruel, walking calmly down the hallway of Officer Ruel's building, carrying various large furniture items as seen in the still images shown below.

In spite of [REDACTED] claims that her toe may have been broken, in the video her gait does not appear labored, nor does she appear to be wincing in pain as she transports the various pieces of furniture. In addition, [REDACTED] intimated to COPA that she was worried that she would “bleed out” while at Officer Ruel’s home, however she never called for an ambulance nor did she attempt to seek any other medical attention. Instead, [REDACTED] remained at Officer Ruel’s home for several hours, despite not knowing if and when he may return. Moreover, [REDACTED] had the wherewithal to handwrite a three-page letter to Officer Ruel, despite her claims of injury.

COPA was provided with photographic evidence of injuries to [REDACTED] and also photographs of damage to Officer Ruel’s home. Officer Ruel alleged that the damage was caused by [REDACTED]. As seen in the photographs, several glass items were broken. [REDACTED] claims that Officer Ruel caused her injuries, but COPA cannot say that it is more likely than not that she received those injuries at the hands of Officer Ruel. If [REDACTED] did in fact cause the extensive property damage as alleged by Officer Ruel, it would stand to reason that she may have cut herself and/or bruised herself during the destruction.

COPA found no evidence to support [REDACTED] version of events. In fact, the evidence garnered through this investigation, including [REDACTED] own behavior, shows that she lacks credibility. In addition, when Officer Ruel petitioned for an order of protection, it was granted and charges were filed wherein [REDACTED] became the respondent of an order of protection and a criminal defendant with respect to this incident. While the criminal case and order of protection were dismissed eventually, COPA would remiss if it ignored the fact that a sitting Cook County judge found a basis to both grant the order of protection and allow the criminal charges to be filed against [REDACTED].

Additionally, despite her claims, [REDACTED] did not call the police to report the alleged actions of Officer Ruel. COPA acknowledges that in domestic violence situations, there may be a hesitancy to contact the police and this may be especially true in situations where the partner is a member of law enforcement. However, at some point, [REDACTED] did in fact reach out to members of CPD to provide her version of the incident. It just so happens that the members she reached out to were female officers that may or may not have had intimate relations with Officer Ruel. Moreover, [REDACTED] did eventually file a police report for this incident, but that was not until February 7, 2018, well after the incident, after her COPA interview, and after she was already being criminally prosecuted. COPA opines that the steps taken by [REDACTED] were retaliatory, and not based on her status as a survivor of domestic violence.

In examining Officer Ruel’s credibility, COPA looked at his behavior and the evidence surrounding the incident. The independent witness, [REDACTED] provided a story that corroborates Officer Ruel’s version. [REDACTED] stated that he heard a man and a woman arguing, heard a glass break and a door close and then mayhem after about 15-20 minutes.<sup>28</sup> It is more probable than not that the door that [REDACTED] heard was Officer Ruel leaving his apartment, and the “mayhem” was [REDACTED] destroying the property in Officer Ruel’s apartment. There is no dispute that Officer Ruel left his apartment and went to his sister’s home after an altercation with [REDACTED]. In the hallway surveillance video, he is seen running down the hall, presumably away from his apartment. It is uncontroverted that he did not return home while [REDACTED] was still there.

According to Officer Ruel, once he did return to his home, he saw the property damage. Officer Ruel made a police report contemporaneous with the incident and also took photographs documenting the damage. Officer Ruel also took steps to let his superior officers know about the incident by way of writing a memo. All of the steps that Officer Ruel took, taken in totality, lend credence to his version of the incident.

Officer Ruel denied stating to [REDACTED] "I wish I would have shot and killed you." COPA did not find any corroborating evidence to suggest that he indeed said those words to [REDACTED]. As such, COPA cannot prove or disprove that it happened.

Officer Ruel admitted that he made the statement regarding "karma" to [REDACTED]. While, ill advised, there is no evidence to suggest that it was a threat.
